Sustainability & ESG Framework

2023

This framework applies to Barings LLC and its subsidiaries (“Barings,” “we” or “our”)

As of September 30, 2023

About This Framework

Barings is a global investment manager sourcing differentiated opportunities and building portfolios across public and private fixed income, real estate and specialist equity markets. Barings has established this Sustainability & ESG Framework to demonstrate how it intends to integrate the analysis of ESG risks and opportunities into its overall investment process and corporate operations.

Key terms used in this framework are defined on page 12

Barings' Approach To Sustainability & ESG

Environmental, social and governance ("ESG") topics are key considerations in Barings' fundamental, bottom-up analysis of investments because we believe that ESG matters are material to overall investment performance. This includes engagement related to our investment opportunities, related issuers and voting practices, where possible, to guide issuers towards sustainable practices.

Barings' approach is to partner with our clients to find the ESG and sustainability solutions that help fit their needs and support their overall preferences on related topics and practices.

Barings' "ESG" (see page 12 for definition) & "sustainability" (see page 12 for definition) strategy is based on three core pillars:

ESG INVESTMENT INTEGRATION

We integrate the analysis of financially-material ESG information into the investment process. The aim of this is to provide a more holistic understanding of the complex risks, opportunities and value drivers that may impact clients' portfolios over time. Fundamental analysis is at the heart of the Barings investment philosophy and, paired with ESG analysis, is integrated into the investment process across asset classes.

STEWARDSHIP

As stewards of our clients' capital, we seek to leverage our position with the entities in which we invest to minimize ESG risks in alignment with our investment strategy to generate superior risk-adjusted returns for our clients. We engage and vote, where possible, to encourage enhanced ESG disclosure and practices that we believe can unlock value for our clients and may contribute to positive environmental and social outcomes.

CORPORATE RESPONSIBILITY

The consideration of ESG topics isn't just integrated into the investment process but permeates Barings' business activities through corporate responsibility efforts. Our commitment to corporate social responsibility guides our Barings Social Impact strategy and influences how we use our resources to invest in the communities in which we live and work. This commitment also shapes Barings' firm policies on respect, diversity and sustainability. In addition, our commitment is reflected in the expectations we set for our global teams.

ESG Topic Framework

ESG Investment Integration

Through investment analysis, including material ESG topics, we seek to understand the factors that influence the financial sustainability of the investments we make.

Barings' investment professionals evaluate material ESG information, along with various other potential risks and opportunities that may impact their investments, portfolios, and Barings' investment professionals evaluate material ESG information, along with various other potential risks and opportunities that may impact their investments and portfolios to make informed decisions that align with the clients' investment objectives. Investment professionals are given the flexibility to assess the material ESG risks and opportunities that affect the investments in their remit. Barings investment professionals may supplement their proprietary ESG evaluation with third-party ESG data and research, where coverage allows.

ESG analysis continues through the life of an investment with investment teams monitoring their investments' performance and progress on ESG matters.

Experience and the evolution of best practices related to the integration of material ESG considerations are shared through periodic formal and informal internal discussions, as well as through cross-functional working groups that comprise the broader Sustainability & ESG governance structure at Barings. ESG investment representatives, as well as attendees from other teams, are invited to attend an ESG Investment Integration Working Group at least quarterly to share best practice, related projects, challenges and opportunities.

ESG SCORES

In the evaluation of material risks and/or opportunities, investment professionals assign proprietary ESG scores to investments, and record them in Barings' platforms. These scores provide an overall assessment of the current state and outlook of the investment on ESG topics. Typically, investments are assigned a one (excellent) to five (unfavorable) ESG Current State Score and an 'improving', 'stable' or 'deteriorating' ESG Outlook Score for each of the ESG categories. ESG scores may be presented to the relevant investment committees (where such committees are in place), in investment/underwriting memorandums, and/or in earnings notes. Investment professionals review ESG scores periodically and/or as material ESG developments occur.

Stewardship

ESG topics are key considerations in our fundamental, bottom-up analysis because we believe that ESG issues can be material to investment performance. Through ESG analysis, we engage with issuers to encourage better ESG standards and disclosures that we believe can unlock value for our clients. Our intentional and considered approach to ESG integration and stewardship is grounded in obtaining relevant data and a commitment to partnering with clients and investees to protect long-term value.

Our approach is founded on the belief that minimizing ESG risks and unlocking ESG opportunities helps us achieve risk-adjusted returns for our clients in line with their time horizons.

STEWARDSHIP IN PRACTICE

As stewards of our clients' capital, we act through a range of mechanisms, including:

- Our investment process, where ESG information is integrated into investment analysis.
- Our influence and control over certain assets, engaging with companies, issuers, sponsors, servicers, policymakers, service providers and industry bodies, to improve transparency and sustainable practices, in pursuit of minimizing risks and maximizing returns.
- Our partnership with clients on their goals, timelines and stewardship preferences to ensure our investment strategies align with their values.

Further information on our stewardship approach is captured in our annual reporting as signatories of the Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) and the UK Stewardship Code. We also are a signatory of the Korea Stewardship Code.

ENGAGEMENT

Barings' investment professionals are responsible for undertaking engagement with corporate and sovereign issuers. Depending on the investment team, our investment professionals also liaise with investment managers, consultants, sponsors, tenants and servicers as part of the engagement process.

Where we engage with industry bodies and regulators, this is typically undertaken by representatives from our Sustainability & ESG or Compliance teams.

Our engagement approach with public corporate and sovereign issuers typically involves the following:

- Engagements are initiated at the discretion of investment analysts based on the selection of material ESG topics, typically identified through the ESG integration process and ongoing monitoring.
- Certain individuals we engage with often sit at C-suite level for corporates and senior governmental representatives for sovereign entities.
- Objectives, milestones, likelihood of success and timelines are established at the offset of engagement and progress against these are recorded in our proprietary system.
- Insights gained through engagements feed back into our fundamental ESG analysis.
- As a signatory of the UN Global Compact, we are guided by its principles and incorporate these into our engagement activities related to fundamental responsibilities in the areas of human rights, labor, environment and anti-corruption.
- As part of our firm-level approach, our investment teams have access to join collaborative engagement groups, where deemed relevant, to consolidate efforts and streamline engagement goals.
- Any concerns identified through ongoing monitoring and engagement interactions may lead to escalation (see below).

Considerations for our engagement approach with issuers from our other investment teams include the following:

- Dialogue with private companies (e.g., from our Global Private Finance and Diversified Alternative Equity teams) typically involves regular discussion with both the portfolio company and the private equity sponsor on identifying and steering improvements to ESG performance.
- Where equity positions are held in companies or real estate assets outside of the Public Equities team, our stewardship activity can take the form of direct changes to operations or management rather than engaging as a separate entity.
- Through debt, including private companies and real estate, we leverage the agreement on ESG requirements being incorporated into loan documentation as an opportunity to steer engagement.
- The nature of dialogue can be more focused at the due diligence phase and may involve interacting with other stakeholders such as issuers and servicers of securitized credit, as well as sponsors and consultants for private companies, real estate and infrastructure.

Engagement topics with individual issuers generally tend to be on longer-term issues that may impact our investments, however, we may also engage reactively and on shorter-term risks on a case-by-case basis. The topics for engagement can vary and are related to material issues identified and overall engagement objectives are designed to seek to improve disclosure or change behavior of the issuer. Other factors that may influence prioritization include the perceived chance of success, the size of our potential investments and the nature of existing transparency on a topic.

Barings also engages with relevant industry bodies and policymakers with such efforts supported by representatives from our Sustainability & ESG, Legal, & Compliance teams and may in certain cases be subject to specific regulatory requirements. For more information see (Barings Asset Management Ltd and Barings International Investment Ltd.) our ESG Integration and Active Ownership Policy here.

ESCALATION

Based on our analysts' relationship with and understanding of our investments, we believe that engaging in dialogue should be the initial approach for pursuing engagement objectives. Where engagement objectives are not being met we may consider various escalation options, including but not limited to the following:

- Issue flagged to the Sustainability & ESG team (who may join engagement efforts or consider broader escalation options available).
- Investment thesis reviewed by portfolio management with potential adjustment to portfolio weighting.
- Vote against management or the board on material issues.
- Pursuit of collaborative engagement.
- Removal of the issuer from the approved buy list.

Across our asset classes, some other considerations may include:

- As debt investors, we can be limited by our lack of ownership to raise ESG issues, however, we typically gain access to issuers' senior management to communicate our concerns where engagements are not on track.
- We also look to collaborate across fixed income and public equity teams to identify where investment activity can be leveraged, including pursuing collaborative engagement opportunities where appropriate.
- For our illiquid investments the due diligence stage plays a crucial role in identifying and escalating any ESG-related concerns before proceeding.
- In private finance, our director positioning or relationship with private equity sponsors can be leveraged to pursue the progression of engagement objectives.
- Escalation with sovereign governments can be hindered by an investor's position as one of many stakeholders and the consideration of respect for sovereignty; we believe, however, that ongoing dialogue is key to communicating and pursuing engagement objectives.

EXCLUSION

Our preference has always been to engage with our investments, rather than pursue an exclusionary approach. We will not, however, directly invest in companies or knowingly hold securities issued by companies that are materially involved in the production, stockpiling and use of cluster munitions, anti-personnel mines and chemical and biological weapons at the time of investment.

The Barings Guideline Monitoring team (or Korea Compliance team for Korean investments) is responsible for monitoring Sustainability & ESG exclusions/restrictions/thresholds.

PROXY VOTING

We understand that proxy voting is an integral part of our investment management responsibilities and believe, as a general principle, that proxies should be acted upon solely in the best interests of clients' investment objectives. Our approach to proxy voting is outlined in the Global Proxy Voting Policy.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

When the interests of a Barings entity or entities and Barings employees interfere with, or have the potential to interfere with, Barings' fiduciary obligations to its clients, a conflict of interest can occur. Potential conflicts from our stewardship activities could include:

- Voting behavior inconsistent with client interests;
- Personal interests overriding client interests;
- Holding multiple segments of capital structure; and/or
- Undue influence in board membership.

Through our investment teams, compliance team, and proxy voting group and proxy administrator, procedures are in place to mitigate these potential conflicts.

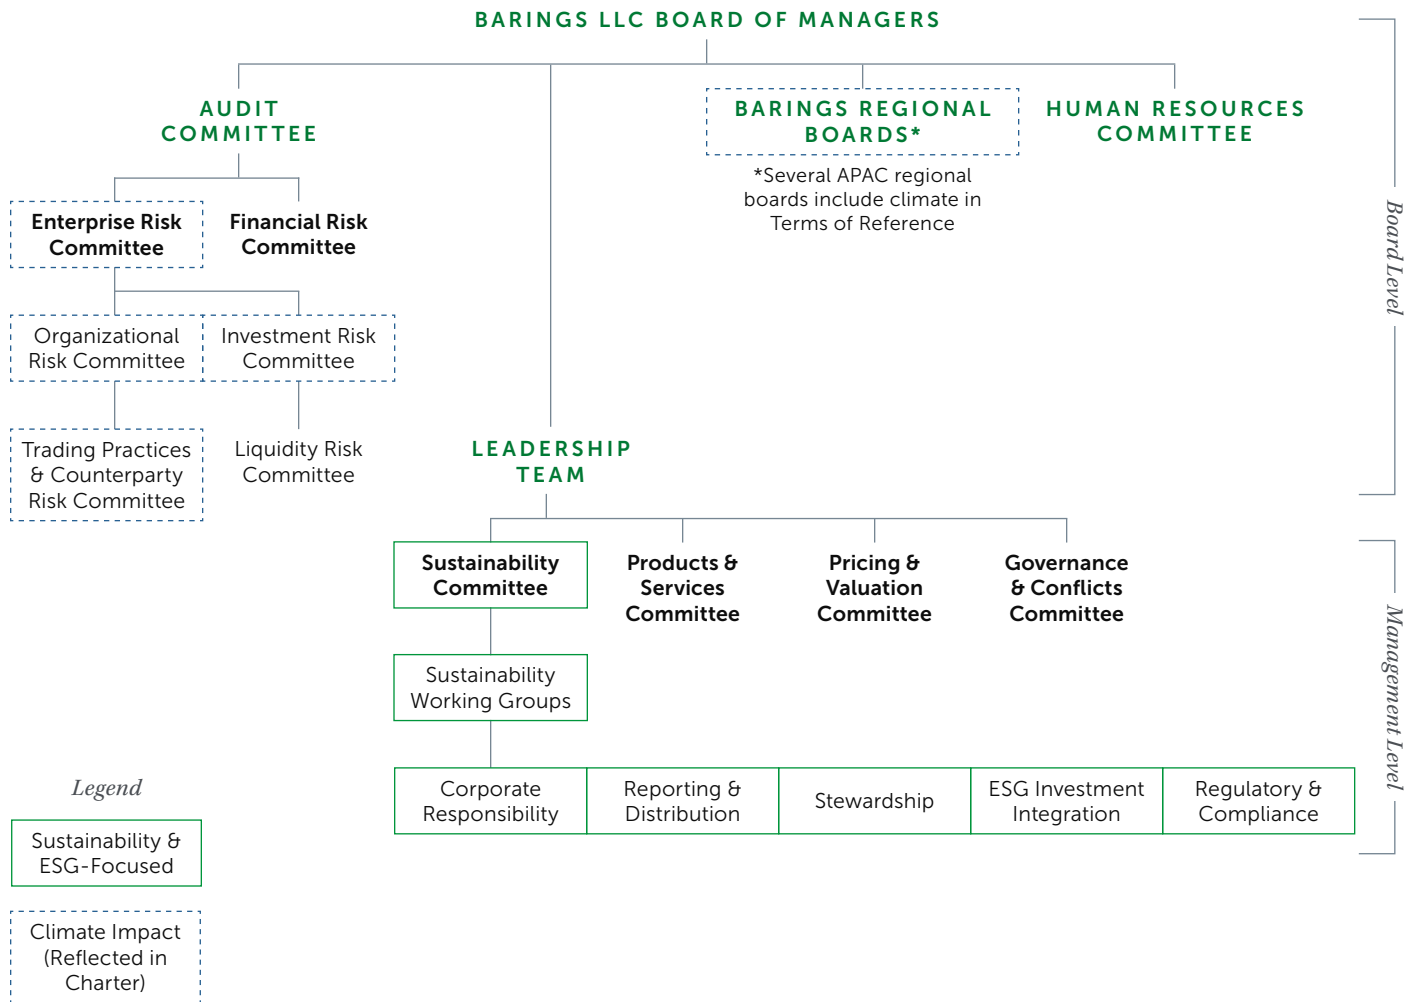

More broadly, each Barings entity manages client accounts in a manner that is consistent with the client's best interests and attempts to avoid and/or manage situations where there can be potential conflicts of interest.

Each Barings entity has adopted a corporate governance structure (i.e. committees, a board of directors or similar body) which assist in the oversight of its investment management and business activities. Under this corporate governance structure, each Barings entity may identify potential conflicts of interest and is responsible for the ongoing management and/or resolution of any conflicts of interest for those activities. Barings' Global Conflicts of Interest Policy is applicable across our stewardship and ESG integration activities.

SAFE & ETHICAL WORKING PRACTICES

Our Global Associate Ethics and Conduct Guide forms the basis of our guidance on integrating the consideration of human rights into every employee's daily work and behavior. It is predicated on the philosophy that operating in accordance with ethical standards is critical to the success of Barings' vision. Please see the Global Associate Ethics and Conduct Guide here.

Additionally, Barings is committed to planning for safe and healthy operations within the parameters established by our policies and by occupational health, safety and environmental laws in countries and jurisdictions in which Barings operates.

TRAINING & EDUCATION

Barings is committed to the continuous growth and development of its teammates. This is supported by a number of learning and development offerings that are provided, including:

- Mandatory and required trainings (e.g. legal & compliance, region-specific).
- Access to the LinkedIn Learning platform.
- Internal training specific to various processes.
- Industry and specialty focused training (e.g., Moody's, CFA).
- Manager development trainings focused on both new managers and ongoing manager development.
- Barings' Development Programs, focused on developing the next generation of senior leaders at the firm.
- Professional development (e.g., communications and presentation skills training).
- Global education reimbursement, including for sustainability and ESG credentials.

Barings hosts external speakers to discuss ESG and sustainability-related topics, includes sustainability-related credentials as part of our continuing education incentives program, and our investment teams receive training from third-party providers according to their preferences. The Barings Sustainability & ESG team provides support across the firm by attending formal and informal meetings, and coordinating sustainability and ESG working groups.

ESG DATA

Third-party vendors are governed by the Barings Global Vendor Management policy.

Its objective is to provide a global framework to manage the risks associated with conducting business with vendors by formalizing processes for managing, measuring, and controlling risks related to onboarding, monitoring ongoing performance (including establishing and testing agreed controls and performance metrics for vendors), periodic risk assessments, and off-boarding vendors. We expect our suppliers to operate in a responsible, ethical, open and transparent way and in compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

Third-party data and research form one input to our ESG integration and stewardship work. While we may use third-party data providers to inform our ESG scoring and analysis, we place an emphasis on our own fundamental analysis, including via direct interactions with companies and stakeholders. Investment professionals use systems (these may be proprietary or third-party) to record Barings' proprietary ESG scores on assets and may also record their stewardship activities in the same systems. We have universal licensing agreements (albeit with public/private firewalls in place) with our third-party ESG data providers that allow stakeholders to review ESG information from third-party and proprietary research and data.

Barings' dedicated Data Governance team's work includes quality checks on internal and third-party ESG data. The team runs data quality checks on quarterly reported portfolio-level data: outliers are flagged based on quarter-over-quarter changes and further research is done at the holdings level to determine the cause of change. The team also runs monthly data quality checks on internal data. The Barings PSA team also supports data governance efforts by providing several quality checks to validate the completeness of our proprietary ESG scores. These checks may include checking ESG score values, monitoring changes in updated scores, and whether scores have been updated in a timely fashion. The results of the PSA team's checks are shared with members of the Data Governance team who review these with the business owner.

REMUNERATION

Barings' ESG-dedicated resources are evaluated on their contribution to firm and/or team-level sustainability and ESG performance; this includes our Sustainability & ESG and PSA teams, and dedicated investment team ESG resources. Investment professionals across a number of our investment teams have ESG formally integrated into their annual performance reviews. Additionally, employees' performance is reviewed and measured against Barings' core values ("Value Our People, Take Accountability, Foster Collaboration and Deliver Excellence") into which sustainability and ESG contributions may be integrated.

OUR ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Barings is committed to integrating environmental awareness into our business activities, by acting as advocates inside and outside the business and by communicating transparently on our progress. We seek to improve our environmental performance and to integrate recognized environmental management into our business operations.

Statement On Climate Change

We understand that the rise in temperatures analyzed and forecast by many different scientists and agencies could have widespread consequences on financial markets due to physical, transition and regulatory impacts and changes. The consequences of climate risks may already be impacting our clients and communities, and science suggests that these impacts are likely to escalate further.¹

Barings seeks to protect its clients from emerging risks. In our investment activities, we integrate the analysis of material ESG topics, including climate change, into our investment process across our asset classes in order to better understand the risks and opportunities associated with a changing world. We make efforts to assess the financially-material physical, regulatory and transition risks stemming from climate change. We also integrate, where material, analysis of the investment opportunities of a future net zero carbon world to try to, where possible, capitalize on this transition.

We recognize climate change as a systemic risk which is considered by investment analysts in their selection and prioritization of engagement topics. Engagement objectives related to climate change include but are not limited to establishing appropriate climate governance, carbon footprinting, target setting and reduction plans.

We target net zero greenhouse gas (“GHG”) operational emissions by 2030 and have been GHG neutral through offsets and reduction activities since 2019. Our global offices have many measures in place to try to mitigate our impact on the environment. We have signed statements to G7 and G20 governments in support of the Paris Climate Agreement, urging these governments to continue to uphold the Agreement’s principles aimed at combatting climate change. As signatories to the United Nations Global Compact since 2018, we support their principles on the environment. In addition, we are participants in Climate Action 100+, an investor engagement initiative supporting improved transparency and governance of climate risks and opportunities at the world’s largest greenhouse gas emitters.

Definitions

ESG

Environmental, social and governance (“ESG”) are three core topics Barings considers when assessing pecuniary risks of an investment and our own business. These topics can also be used to assess sustainability.

SUSTAINABILITY

Barings uses the United Nations Brundtland Commission’s definition of meeting the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs; Barings also applies the Cambridge Dictionary’s definition of the quality of being able to continue over a period of time.

FINANCIAL MATERIALITY

Barings uses the PRI’s definition which states that ESG topics with a substantial impact on the current and future financial, economic, reputational, and legal prospects of an issuer, security, investment, or asset class.

STEWARDSHIP

Barings uses the United Kingdom Financial Reporting Council’s definition of the responsible allocation, management and oversight of capital to create long-term value for clients and beneficiaries leading to sustainable benefits for the economy, the environment and society. Barings also applies the PRI definition of the use of influence by institutional investors to maximize overall long-term value, including the value of common economic, social and environmental assets, on which returns and clients’ and beneficiaries’ interests depend.

ENGAGEMENT

Barings uses the PRI’s definition of interactions and dialogue conducted between an investor, or their service provider and a current or potential investee (e.g., company), or a non-issuer stakeholder (e.g., an external investment manager or policy maker) to improve practice on an ESG factor, make progress on sustainability outcomes, or improve public disclosure. In private markets, engagement also refers to investors’ direct control over and dialogue with management teams and/or Board of portfolio companies and/or real assets.

CORPORATE RESPONSIBILITY

A self-regulating business model that helps a company be accountable to itself, its stakeholders, and the public. By practicing corporate responsibility, also called corporate citizenship, companies can be conscious of the kind of impact they are having on all aspects of society, including economic, social and environmental. This involves making efforts to, in the ordinary course of business, operate in ways that enhance society and the environment instead of contributing negatively to them.
